Many people experience Christianity as a system of belief, focused on an exclusive Supreme Being who favours some and rejects others, and is defended by a set of change-averse, self-protecting institutions. Environmentalist and theologian Ruth Valerio examines these issues in a book that is intellectually rigorous yet practical, and as inspiring as it is challenging. We can only benefit from spending more time with. Out of the Comfort Zone: Praise for Did You Think to Pray? This is a fascinating book, perhaps the best I've read on the subject.
