A must read folks Here is one for those of us who absolutely adore great literature. As we all do, I had painted a picture of what I thought this book would be about and how it would be laid out after reading the summary. This is the 4th year in a row I've read it, and it never gets old.

I wanted to like this book, truly, but it wasn't the right fit for me. It is a gothic tale set in Barcelona. For death is not always the worst thing that can happen "words are not always the worst prison". He has one of the characters write a 30 page or so letter to the main character telling him what really happened. God, this part always touched me deeply and reading me as well The plottwist lordie, miss molly, good gracious my angel, good heavens dear father!
