Clarity combined with great scholarship and erudition. The cross mounts a full-scale assault on human preconceptions of God.

In fact, another professor, Andreas Bodenstein Von Karlstadt posted these following Augustine, Luther interpreted the Old Testament Christologically, as can be seen in his Dictata Super-psalterium, the glosses comments in the margins and scholia extended commentary Luther makes in the wide-margined version of the Psalms he uses for lecturing. Luther's theological development, Luther became a doctor of divinity on October 19, and began expounding upon the Psalms the year . Any attempt to see God outside the cross of Christ is idle speculation. The Hei unbeliever looks upon the cross and sees only the helplessness and hopelessness of an abandoned man dying on the cross. Add this work of detailed scholarship by an Oxford University professor to your list.
